Agreement between the parties

Ownership - The seller sells the vehicle identified on the first page to the buyer. The seller declares the basis of ownership and the right to sell. Pledges, leasing, co-ownership and third-party rights are recorded below, together with the documents resolving them.

Vehicle condition - The parties record the condition, damage, known defects and declared history. Technical inspections, evidence and service records are attached where available. Statements about condition do not restrict mandatory statutory rights.

Payment and handover - Payment follows the amount and deadlines on the first page. Each payment is documented. The date, time, place and condition at handover are recorded in a report signed by both parties.

Documents and procedure - The parties provide ownership documents and cooperate with the relevant procedure. For registered vehicles, the final form of the agreement and notarial certification are checked with the notary and registration service. For other machinery, the required documents depend on the type of property.

Costs and taxes - The parties specify the allocation of costs below. Tax obligations and any required invoice are handled according to the seller's status and applicable law.

Known defects, encumbrances or third-party rights
